

CONVERSATION heart BINGO

HOW TO PLAY:

what you will need:

printable bingo cards
printable calling card sheet
printable heart tracker sheet
A nice amount of conversation heart candies in yellow. purple. green.
pink. blue .orange markers for bingo cards such as crayons. pens. pencils or stickers

game play:

TO PLAY the game you need a bingo caller - parents are good for this Place all of your conversation heart candies in a bag so you cannot see them then reach in and pull one out. then you will take that heart and roll it on the calling card sheet—like you were playing hopscotch. which ever letter it lands on or it is closest too will be the one they get to mark off. example: you pulled a pink heart out and it landed on the letter B. now the kids can mark off only one pink heart if they have one under the column B on their bingo card. if they have more than one pink heart under that column they can pick anyone to mark off they choose. but only one!

Then take your pink heart and place it on the heart tracker sheet so you can keep track of what you have already called.

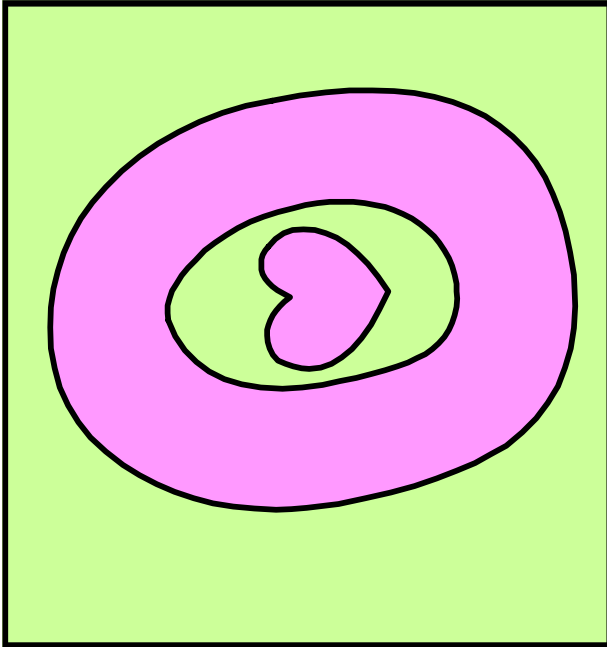

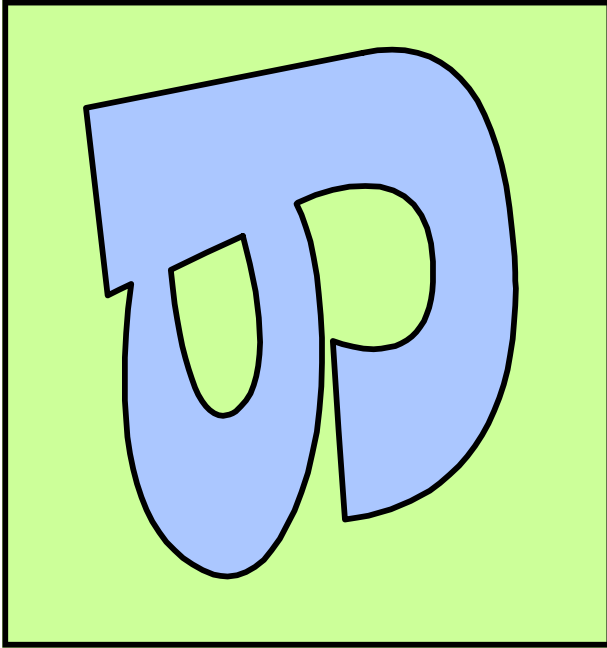

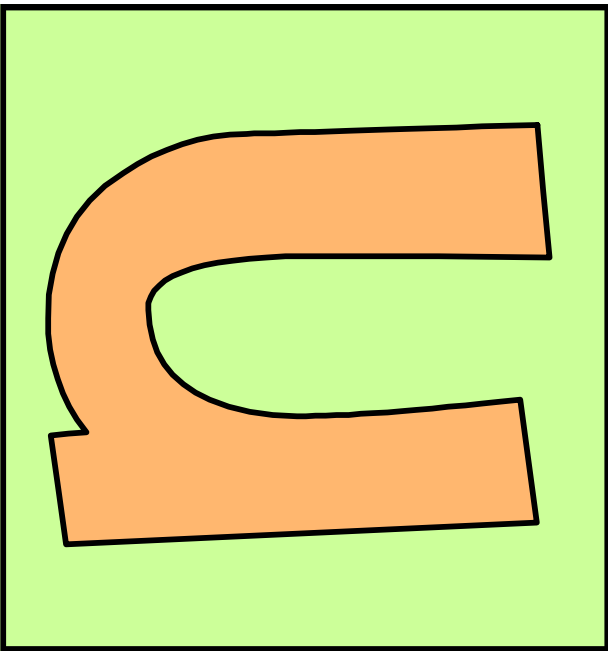

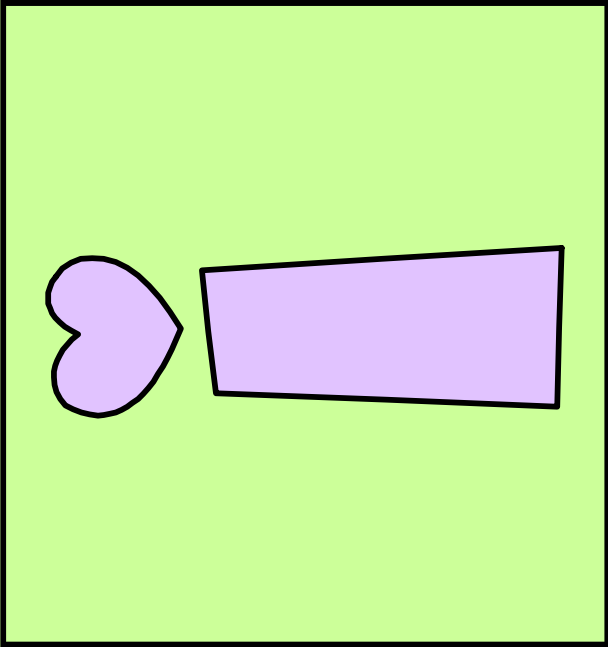

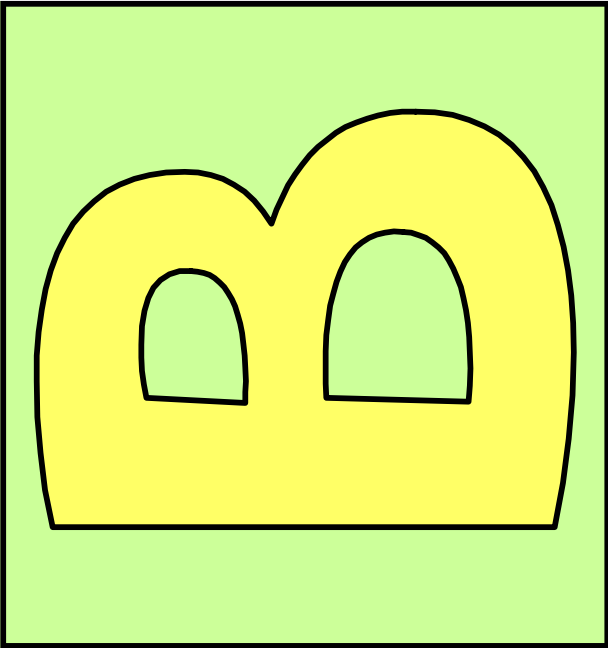

Keep playing until someone gets a bingo having marked off a row of hearts either vertical or diagonally.

Alternative game play:

Another more simple way you can play with younger ones is by just pulling out a conversation heart and letting the kids mark off any heart matching that color on the card. but only one at a time.

Keep pulling out hearts until one of them gets a bingo.

Then when the game is all over eat your candies—yummy!!!
